It is Friday, and Binh and Trang are planning their weekend with their children.

First, they check a newspaper and find community events.

They find many events where the admission is free.

They decide to go to the free children's fair in the park.

The fair has many events for children: an art exhibit, storytelling, and an evening concert.

The family wants to look at the art, listen to the stories, and enjoy the concert.

Then, in the evening, they want to have a picnic dinner in the park.

Binh plans to make some rice noodles and spring rolls for the picnic.

After the picnic, there will be a concert in the park.

Trang intends to bring blankets for the family to sit on for the concert.

The problem is that it might rain this weekend!

If it rains, Binh and Trang will have to make different plans.
